Dear Bill:

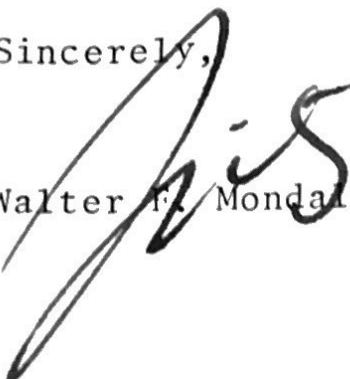

I just wanted you to know that I've been reading all those terrific press accounts about your attempt to get business involved in helping to meet the social needs of this country.

Bill, I know you sometimes think you're a voice crying in the wilderness, but there are many of us who appreciate your efforts and hope you'll keep trying. So much remains to be done in this great country of ours, and it will only be through a partnership of business, government, and labor that we will accomplish the task of meeting the needs of "the least of these."

Keep up the good work! Warmest personal regards.

Sincerely,

Walter F. Mondale
